

CLINT NOHR
WHEN CUTE TURNS THIRTY

Using his young appearance to his advantage, Clint immediately establishes a rapport with the audience. He's charming and adorable and the funny thing is, he ACTUALLY believes this. Truth is, he combines sharp writing with a likable approach to any topic (nothing off limits). It's a mixed bag of observational humor coming from a warped and twisted, yet somehow always relatable point of view. His conversational delivery comes across almost over-confident and self deprecating all at once, giving him the ability to connect with ANY crowd.

Audiences and critics agree that Clint "has it". He took 3rd place in the Carnival Cruise Comedy Challenge and passed to the call-back round of NBC's Last Comic Standing 2 in Tampa, all in his first year of comedy. Since 2003, Clint has played in clubs nationwide along with numerous festival appearances. He's been a guest on "Bob and Tom" and seen on SPEED Channel. He has participated in the Boston Comedy Festival and Laugh Your Asheville Off. Plus, he was a finalist in the Charleston Comedy Competition and semi-finalist in the Funniest Person in Austin. Clint was recently seen on Fox's LaughsTV and appeared at the Oddball Comedy Festival starring Louis C.K and Aziz Anzari.

In 2015 Clint headlined the O'Lounge outside Osan AFB, South Korea's only full time comedy club as well as Stand Up Seoul. And gosh darn it, it's a big deal to him.
